The Train the Trainer program prepares participants to conduct training by examining the roles, attributes and responsibilities of the trainer, the learning styles of trainees and the adult learning processes. Opportunities are provided throughout the course for participants to integrate and demonstrate this knowledge with the verbal and non-verbal communication skills, problem solving skills, and creative training techniques presented. Participants build and refine their training skills and receive valuable feedback as they practice their training techniques using real content related to their workplace. This three day program will enable delegates to develop skills in the design of their programs. The output sessions will enable the participants to rehearse their learnt skills of presentations.

This experiential workshop also shows you how to write performance-based training materials. It will give you tips and techniques to make your materials popular, interesting and lively, using clear and concise writing style.
