

Saturday, January 19, 2019 - 5.00 to 8.00 p.m.

Having great ideas and plans by themselves, do not lead to success and growth; successful execution is the key. Disciplined execution never got the attention it deserves from the Management Researchers, till recently. Slowly but surely, more researchers are finding out what distinguishes successful execution from poor execution. This program is designed to help you become more successful in execution.

Flow

- Two types of executions – ‘by stroke of the pen’ & ‘through the change in behaviour’
- Enemies of successful execution – the iron-grip of the routine, the old habits, inability to see the obvious, post mortem
- Discipline of focus – one at a time
- Discipline of discovering and establishing predictive, self-set measures
- Discipline of anticipating what can go wrong and being prepared for contingencies
- Discipline of emotional engagement through getting commitment and use of scoreboard
- Discipline of holding each other accountable for fulfilling promises made
- Discipline of finding what is right, appreciating and celebrating
